

Up-market jewels

Wedding trousseau nowadays tend to stress on trendy and sleek jewellery rather than just chunks of gold. Ravissant offers some funky options.

NEW STORE

Now that the wedding season is upon us, brides-to-be have a host of options to choose from. Ravissant, the luxury design house, has launched a new range of jewellery for the first time ever. The range is in diamonds designed in an art deco style in intricate forms. Tourmalines, roassachrosites, rubies, different colour topazes, corals, pearls, citrines, aquamarines, peridots are some of the stones used in the collection. As coloured gemstones are the trend in jewellery this season, these stones have been fused with metals, diamonds and antique pieces, which gives it a contemporary look.

Regular clients of Ravissant like Nandas, Jindals and Modis, who checked out the jewellery at a private viewing, approved of the designs and picked up some of the pieces. "When some of our special clients loved our jewellery, we decided to launch a jewellery room at the complex for all our customers. These pieces are just perfect for the woman of today who likes to wear jewellery everyday," says Mina Chawla of Ravissant. The pieces are not too overbearing which gives it a very uncluttered look with an element of unique designing as well. A team of jewellery designers has worked on the jewellery range, prices for which start from Rs 30,000.
